

PERMISSIVE ACCESS

This is a linear permissive access route joining up public footpaths in Normanton to create a circular route. It also gives access to Carlton Scroop and Hough on the Hill. The route is a quiet grassed track and there is a stile for access to the southern section. The field next to the beck is under grass to protect the earthworks associated with the mediaeval settlement of Normanton. Over the stile the arable field to the left has a margin of wildflowers to increase the biodiversity of the area and provide food and habitat for wildlife.

This access has been provided under the Department for Environment, Food & Rural Affairs' farm conservation schemes as managed by Natural England, which help farmers and land managers protect and improve the countryside, its wildlife and history. It is permissive access and no new rights of way are being created. Existing rights of way are not affected. Please follow the Countryside Code and observe any other requirements shown above. Do not disturb wildlife, livestock or other visitors and in particular keep dogs under control. This is working farmland so please take care; people using this site do so at their own risk. Access ends on 30th April 2018.
