

PERMISSIVE ACCESS

The public footpath leads from the Hadrian's Wall trail south down to the B6318 and around the fields on the south side of this road. The permissive open access fields to the south of the B6318 contain the remains of 18th or 19th century lime kilns and various areas of mineral workings. Remains of a Roman road and a Roman fort can also be found within these fields.

This access is provided under the Department for Environment, Food & Rural Affairs' farm conservation schemes as managed by Natural England, helping farmers and land managers protect and improve the countryside, its wildlife and history. It is permissive access and no new rights of way are being created. Existing rights of way are not affected. Please follow the Country Code & local signs. CRoW Open Access is provided under the CRoW Act 2000 and gives rights of access to open country (For details & restrictions see www.countrysideaccess.gov.uk). Do not disturb wildlife, livestock or other visitors and in particular keep dogs under control. This is working farmland so please take care. People using this site do so at their own risk. Access ends on 29th February 2020.
